WE NOMINATE

Michael Charles Kopliner, chairman of this community's Veterans' Welfare Committee, member of the Borough Council and one of Princeton University's omnipresent proctors. Reaching the half-century mark next September 1st, Kopliner, a front-line veteran of World War I, devotes an astounding amount of energy and countless hours to helping solve the problems of returned servicemen by seeking positive action rather than resorting to passive lip-service.

The son of a New York pressman, Kopliner is a native of Elmhurst, N. Y., who after trying his hand at roofing, took a crack at soldering and served along the Mexican Border in 1916. A brief interval as a starter with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit preceded his return to wartime duty with the 27th Infantry Division. He spent nearly a year in Europe, earned three battle stars and re-enlisted in 1919 to become sergeant instructor in the Princeton ROTC unit.

Four years later, back in civilian clothes, he stepped into his present university position, which he has since held continuously with the exception of a ten-month period in 1942-43. Kopliner promptly projected himself into local affairs, including politics and service organizations, and made time for his hobby, athletics. In 1926 he hurled a no-hit, no-run game; in 1933 he piloted the Princeton team that copped the title in the Central Jersey League; and last week, gave his much younger opponent a stiff run for his money in the Princeton tennis championships.

Kopliner, a confirmed Democrat as long as he can remember, was defeated at the polls in 1944 but was elevated to the Borough Council last fall and now heads the Borough's committee on grounds and buildings. His other "outside" interests are indicative of the scope of his enthusiasm for things worthwhile: an active sponsor of both the Playground Program and Boy Scout activities; a member of Engine Company Number One's efficient First Aid Unit; past Vice-Commander of Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion and now an executive committeeman of the post; a member of the Knights of Columbus.

For his deep-rooted conviction that Princeton must do everything within its power to facilitate the adjustment of its veterans to the ways of peace; for discharging his difficult, and frequently thankless, university duties in a manner that has gained the respect of town and gown; he is TOWN TOPICS' candidate for

More on Housing. No neophyte in the matter of studying and acting upon the housing problem, the Princeton community this week saw a particularly progressive step completed in the unceasing quest for homes. Formation has been announced of a 29-man housing committee, representative of all interests, and designed, in the words of Chairman James A. Arnold, Jr.:

"To study all building needs and requirements in the community—both immediate and long-range—and to make recommendations concerning them.

"To appraise the degree and extent of the emergency problem and to expedite its prompt solution."

Creation of the committee results from a suggestion made to the Princeton Development Council by Princeton Chapter No. 1, American Veterans Committee, which stressed the need for giving voice to all interests in Princeton and for recognizing the fact that the problem is principally long-range in nature. The AVC's well-phrased plea for action brought appointment of Mr. Arnold by the Development Council and his resultant choice of 28 fellow Princetonians.

The committee includes the following: John A. Archer, Albert Ash, Martin L. Beck, George R. Bowers, J. Douglas Brown, B. Franklin Bunn, Edmund D. Cook, John C. Cooper, Jr., Joseph Fasanella, George R. Griffing, Isaac L. Henderson, Rupert A. Jahn, Alex Johnston, Jack Kavenaugh, Michael C. Kopliner.

Also, Robert McCloskey, Joseph McLean, William Miller, Mayor Minot C. Morgan, Jr., Thomas R. Mulvey, the Rev. William T. Parker, John P. Poe, Robert Pullen, I. Russell Riker, Edward A. Robie, George Ronald, the Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker and Howard B. Waxwood, Jr.

Seven sub-committees have been established and their chairmen named. Mr. McLean will head the group planning a survey of housing need and demand. Mr. Archer will direct a survey of non-residential construction and demand, Professor Beck will investigate the problem of building materials, supply and costs.

A labor-builder conference will be arranged and conducted under supervision of Dr. Tucker, while Mr. Cook will seek to effect maximum utilization of existing housing. Veterans housing projects will be investigated under the guidance of Mr. Miller, with Mr. Arnold heading the committee that will coordinate the efforts of the first six groups and report on their achievements.

★ World-wide in its distribution, whooping cough is endemic in large cities, becoming epidemic on a large scale every two to four years. The seriousness of pertussis, especially in young children, is evidenced by the mortality rate—about 26 percent in infants less than one year old.

Children should be vaccinated during the first year of life. Do not wait for an epidemic. It takes several weeks after vaccination for the body to produce antibodies. Ask your physician now about protection from whooping cough for your baby.

We carry fresh stocks of vaccine under refrigeration at all times.

Sports in Short

Tiger Talc. With football just over the horizon, local sports enthusiasts, while keeping an eye on the Cardinal-Dodger race in the National League and watching the Princeton entry in the Twin-M play-offs, have launched their pre-season quarterbacking, analyzing the Princeton Tiger's eight-game schedule and coming up with a variety of conclusions which range from the morbidly pessimistic to the absurdly optimistic.

At this point in August, crystal-gazing is hazardous—often meaningless. Yet, in looking ahead to what will be the most widely ballyhooed campaign in gridiron history, it is possible to assert that the 1946 Nassau eleven will be a tremendous improvement over last fall's hit-or-miss combination, that the second Caldwell-coached Princeton squad will be the strongest Orange and Black outfit since 1941.

Counterbalancing these rosey-hued conclusions are the facts that at least three Princeton opponents (Pennsylvania, Yale and Rutgers) will be football powerhouses, if not claimants for the mythical eastern title; that all collegiate teams next fall, reaping their respective Service Harvests, will be better than they were a year ago; that four Nassau triumphs, in view of the calibre of the opposition, is a reasonable hope, but far from a safe bet.

Among the 70 varsity candidates reporting on University Field the day after Labor Day will be 26 lettermen, 15 holdovers from last fall and eleven who earned their major "P's" before marching off to war. The previous letter-winners can be divided into the following sub-totals: eight ends, two tackles, six guards, two centers, three quarterbacks, three halfbacks and a pair of fullbacks.

In spite of the impressive paper-total, there are, even from this distance, two gaping holes in the 1946 array: (1) a dearth of stand-out tackle aspirants and (2) a lack of "get-up-and-go" backs. Although plentiful, the ends lack what the tabloids would term "class". The center and guard positions seem relatively well fortified provided that ex-GI's live up to expectations.

Outstanding returnees from the Armed Forces include Frank Perantoni, first-string center in 1942; Charley Brown, Perantoni's successor in 1943; Bill Gallagher at end; Dick West, number one candidate for the blocking back slot; Matt Atkinson and Bob Barclay at the guard posts; and George Franke, the 200-pound fullback who slammed through the Midshipmen for Princeton's winning touchdown over Navy in 1942.

Newcomers to watch: Edward Meade, captain of Andover's undefeated team of 1942, an end candidate; Howard J. Cusic, 210-pounder, from Bronxville, N. Y., at tackle; Sam McSorley, 20-year old line prospect; and Carl Leibert, widely heralded freshman halfback, winner of the LeRoy Mills kicking contest last spring. The last named, his boosters claim, can do everything and "do everything well."

Squad statistics show that the largest man on University Field next month will be Dick Saleeby, 18-year old flankman, from Washington, D. C., standing 6' 4" and topping the 200-pound mark . . . The squad will include representatives of 16 different states, the District of Columbia and Canada . . . Significant note: the squad has been evenly drawn from the preparatory schools and the high schools, 35 from each group . . . The lone Princetonian on the varsity roster, as of this writing, is G. Duncan Robertson former Lawrenceville captain and Navy veteran.

The committee will work in close cooperation with all other groups which have made a study of the housing situation to date. Its creation should in no sense give the impression that the town has been lax in seeking all solutions since the war came to an end—or, for that matter, while Princeton was still a military training center.

But it may well be that coordination of the many interests (labor, contracting, real estate, business, veterans' groups and the two municipalities) will provide the broad perspective and the action which will achieve success. There is much to substantiate the belief that considerably more has already occurred than the mere formation of another citizens' committee.

Art for Art's Sake. Formation has been announced of Princeton Group Arts, Inc., a new community enterprise which will seek to provide leisure time activities for all in the creative arts. The ambitious program calls for a variety of undertakings ranging from choral singing, ensemble music, jazz appreciation, dancing, a theatre work shop, all the handicrafts, and sponsored concerts.

The new organization plans to open its campaign with three such concerts next month. At least one nationally-known artist has been signed to appear here.

Chairman of the committee which has formed Princeton Group Arts, Inc. is Mayor Minot C. Morgan, Jr. Its executive director is Wilson Williams, whose most recent theatrical affiliation was with "Carmen Jones" as assistant stage manager. Mrs. Ira Dickerson is secretary, Edwin T. Goodridge is treasurer, with Mrs. Richard Stoddard in charge of public relations.

Other members include Miss Alice Braveman, Dr. J. Kenneth Wallis, Mrs. Irving Van Zandt, Jr., Richard Stoddard, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Groupe, Dr. Marion Spear, Stanley C. Smoyer and Mrs. Guerino A. Freda.

News of the Theatres

The Playhouse

Smoky (Friday, Saturday) stars a horse finally chosen after a talent search that led the producers of the picture into 39 states. The famous Will James story of a man and his friendship for his steed is embellished with lovely color photography and the gay troubadour singing of Burl Ives. Smoky, Fred MacMurray and Anne Baxter are in the cast. The March of Time picture, "Atomic Power," which has received so much ballyhoo, is also on the bill.

Till The End of Time (Sunday thru Wednesday) tells a tale of three war-battered marines and a young war widow who have trouble facing their immediate futures. The problems each must solve are logical and real, the melodramatic climax and pat solutions finally offered are something of a disappointment. Dorothy Maguire is good as the young widow who wonders whether to love again.

Courage of Lassie (Thursday, Friday, Saturday), forgetting its title, tells about a collie named Bill who encounters many adventures (including a wound sustained in front-line fighting against the Japs) before being returned to his young mistress. The dog is a good actor and particularly appealing, the story is interesting if over-dramatic.

The Garden

Of Human Bondage (Friday, Saturday). The Somerset Maugham classic is retold on the screen, with Paul Henreid in the role of the lovesick medical student and Eleanor Parker portraying the heartless waitress who treats him so cruelly. The film is well made but because it falls short of the standard set by the original (1934 version), it remains unnecessary.

Her Adventurous Night Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday). Dennis O'Keefe, Helen Walker and Tom Powers in a series of unintriguing episodes. There is not much to be said for this one.

Shadows over Chinatown (Thursday, Friday, Saturday) is the latest Charlie Chan mystery. The Chinese detective seeks to solve a series of bloodthirsty killings in a film that has fairly good action. Sidney Toler is the human proverb factory, Mr. Chan.

Activities for junior groups (ages, 4 to 17) and adults are being planned. No headquarters have been selected yet, and a membership drive will be launched shortly. Further announcement, carrying additional details on various classes and projects planned, will come next week.

Titusville to Princeton. Radio Engineer Thomas C. Roberts of 32 Hodge Road has both an inventive mind and a sense of humor. It is probable that both came in handy as he left Titusville, Pennsylvania, Tuesday morning, accompanied by his 19-year old son Fred, bound for Princeton. The Roberts' brand of vehicular equipment for the 265-mile journey consisted of a White touring car built in 1911.

The trip was undertaken principally because the Roberts family has just sold a house it owned in the community where, incidentally, oil was first struck in America a century ago. The car was too much fun to sell or junk, and will, accordingly, be given a home here.

So there is a reason for the trip. But to make matters a little more interesting, there is also a side bet that the journey will be completed under the ancient automobile's own power. The stakes: a bottle of champagne.

Selassie's Bible to Seminary. The Rev. Donald A. Barnhouse, a Theological Seminary alumnus, last week flew back to this country from Addis Ababa, Ethiopian capital. There he had delivered copies of the New Testament translated into Anharic, court language of Emperor Haile Selassie's recovered realm.

As a token of the Emporor's esteem, he brought with him for the Seminary a 500-year old copy of the New Testament in manuscript form. The ancient parchment, well preserved and illustrated by contemporary artists, had been a part of the Negus' personal library.

Menand to Aid Condit. Named assistant to Kenneth H. Condit, Dean of the School of Engineering, this week was Howard Menand, Jr. of 140 Hodge Road. The 32-year old alumnus has spent two years at Harvard Business School and eight as an executive of the Westinghouse Company since graduating here a decade ago.

His experience with the huge Westinghouse firm lay in purchasing and in war contract renegotiations. At Princeton, he will supervise the Engineering School's program for securing surplus government equipment for instructional purposes and will assist with the presentation of courses in engineering administration and industrial management.

Incidental note: Mr. Menand's home town is Menands, New York.

Hatchet Man. Howard Johnson, 42-year old Philadelphian, has no thought that Princeton, like his own home town, is a city of brotherly love. He came here last week, got involved in an argument which he lost when he was hit with an axe.

The police records, Patrolman Bud Applegate told us, have it this way: Johnson went to 9½ Jackson around midnight to see Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Jones. Carmine Rocco, 72-year old landlord at that address, told Johnson callers weren't allowed at that hour.

Eventually, Rocco is said to have
